Mrs Rogers Message

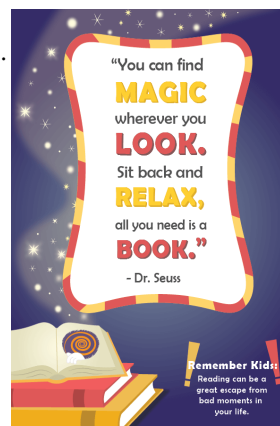

This week has seen Nick Corston from Steam and Co. visiting us on Tuesday to work with our juniors. He delivered an assembly to years 3, 4 and 5 about rockets and the concept of investigating other planets. He spoke about the Elon Musk rocket ventures and taught the children how to build their own rockets. Years 4 and 5 then built their own rockets and a rocket launch took place with years 3, 4, 5 and 6 on Tuesday afternoon on the playground. This was a very exciting day and taught the children all about the world of STEM and engineering.

Next week is very busy with year 6 going to PGL from Monday to Friday. The weather is looking beautiful on the forecast, so we hope they have a lovely time! Year 4 are also going to the Science Museum on Monday in London, for their topic on Sound. They will be visiting the Wonderlab and experimenting with ways to make different sounds!

The 10th October is #HelloYellow day. This is a nationally recognised celebration of the understanding and support for mental health. To support this, children are invited to come to school in non-uniform with an item of yellow. The inclusion Hub will be doing activities on this day, around supporting mental health and anxiety.

Please come along to the book fair next week which will be in the KS2 corridor. Please visit after school through the main reception and peruse our new books. They are sold at a great price and will enhance any child's library, so please do come along and see us!

I hope you all have a lovely weekend and stay safe, Mrs Rogers.
